

Characteristics of Wyoming County

Wyoming County is a small town place filled with small communities where most everybody knows each other. I live on a mountain in Wyoming County called Barker's Ridge. I think Wyoming County is a very special place. One good thing about Wyoming County is that we produce lots of coal. We are also known for the Hatfield McCoy trails, one of the biggest attractions in the state of West Virginia. Twin Falls is a state park in Wyoming County, it's another special place that is great to visit as well.

Have you ever heard of the coal mines? It is one of the main jobs in Wyoming County and it provides a lot of people with a good income. One of the things we are known for here in Wyoming County is the coal mines. The coal mines are not that bad and you get paid pretty good money. My dad works in the coal mine and he works hard so that he can take care of our family.

Have you ever heard of the Hatfield McCoy trails? The Hatfield McCoy trails are really fun. I think that they are one of the main things to do in Wyoming County. I have been riding on the trails a lot with my family, it is really fun. We have an ATV that we ride on the trails. My dad and mom take us riding a lot in the summer. Sometimes when we go riding we eat at a restaurant on the trail called Rider's Paradise, it has really good food.

Now you know about some of the characteristics of Wyoming County which make it a great place to live!